TERMS OF CLEARANCE: Given that NCES plans to contact participants annually for five years, and possibly quite a bit longer, OMB is interested in whether the informed consent materials are adequate to convey this information. Within the next year, we look forward to a report from NCES with the results of a review of how other longitudinal or panel surveys handle informed consent, and to propose appropriate changes. OMB encourages NCES to propose cognitive or other testing of statements that might inform the field about how to be both informative and reassuring about future contacts.
